

Export Not Indicated

The natural gas commission has made no recommendation about the export of gas from Alberta.

It was not asked to make any such recommendation. Yet the wealth of information it has efficiently and painstakingly collected seems to indicate that the province should exercise great care and caution about authorizing the sale of Alberta's gas outside the province.

The Edmonton Bulletin has always taken the position that the export of natural gas should depend entirely upon a sufficient reserve to guarantee consumers a cheap and continuing service and that any export should come from areas not adjacent to present centres of population.

The commission's report seems to substantiate that view.

Among definite recommendations is one that Canadian requirements should have priority over American requirements and that Alberta requirements should have priority over all others.

It is also recommended that "export should not be permitted to disturb the structure of gas prices within Alberta."

These are basic and logical and afford to Alberta people the priority to the use of their own resources which the province has always contended they should enjoy.

The commission finds that known reserves of natural gas amount to 4.6 trillion cubic feet which, at the present rate of consumption at 50 billion cubic feet a year, would ensure a domestic supply for 50 years.

If, however, Alberta consumption were to increase by 3.5 billion cubic feet a year in each of the next 50 years, reserves would have to enlarge to 8.6 trillion cubic feet.

Exports to Manitoba and Saskatchewan would necessitate a reserve of 11 trillion cubic feet. Further exports to B.C. and the United States would make necessary a reserve of 15 trillion cubic feet.

All this is calculated, of course, in terms of the next 50 years.

For people to claim that the gas reserve will ultimately amount to 15 trillion feet and probably a good deal more.

But what nobody knows and what nobody can know is to what extent the domestic demand will increase in the next few years.

The arbitrarily chosen increase of 3.5 billion cubic feet, for purposes of calculation, may be substantially below the actual demand consumption as it multiplies and population growth in Alberta cities.

Moreover, there will be considerable doubt over the use of 50 years as the period through which a cheap and ready domestic supply should be assured.

Again, of course, the commission uses this figure for purposes of comparison only. There is no recommendation as to what length of time domestic users should be guaranteed the gas.

Actually, it would be an injustice to Alberta people if a supply were guaranteed to them for anything less than 100 years at least.

The commission has done an excellent and useful job of collecting information.

In no way can that information be construed as a green light to the institution of export.

Relieving the Load on Hotels

Until Edmonton hotel supplies convention halls and meeting rooms in the projected civic auditorium structure, it is going to be difficult to attract hotel buildings to this city.

This fact stands out nakedly in the negotiations between the city and the Glenison Hotel company and the CNR.

The Glenison company has agreed and the CNR has rejected the offer of taxation on the basis of $100 per room.

The CNR demands that a Macdonald hotel pay no more than $30,000 a year on the completed structure, an increase of $15,000 a year over what it has been paying for years.

The reason, as Mayor Ainlay has

Mayor Says No Change

The Edmonton Town Planning Commission has accepted with great regret the resignation of Professor Cecil Burgess from the chairmanship.

Professor Burgess refused to reconsider his decision to resign after a conversation with Mayor Harry D. Ainlay in which the mayor declined to undertake what the city commission would require in their practice of floating the town planning body in their decisions.

Coffee, Tea and Other Beverages That Inspire

I perused with warm satisfaction an item in the news the other day, which recounted how a member of the House of Representatives of the United States army transport had walked a pantyroom, who had served, interior minister, coffee.

Please to understand that I am not definite, am I not?

I am committed to the view that such an episode should be considered as a serious crime.

It is for the purpose of punishing such a person a fine of $100.

But I do hold intransigently to the opinion that someone of the rank and station of a member of the House of Representatives should be punished as heinously as possible.

Crimes of The Kitchen

I think it is too common knowledge that the crimes of this age are committed in the kitchen.

And of the gastronomic entities that are thus foully done to death, the mortality rate is perhaps highest among tea, coffee and the lesser delectable liquors.

As even greater crimes are committed by the kitchen, it is not surprising that the kitchen is the scene of the most heinous crimes of this age.

It is for the purpose of punishing such a person a fine of $100.

The fiery exchanges in our Parliament between the Prime Minister and Mr. Drew are symptomatic of the times. It is probably true in the U.S.A. but it is bad everywhere.

Here are a few samples of events in various countries, which all seem to me to add up:

The President of the richest, most powerful nation on earth publicly calls a newspaper critic "a S.O.B."

A couple of hundred years ago, someone would certainly have resulted in a duel.

A British spokesman at the United Nations, Mr. Gurnea, boasts that Britain's recovery is due to the fact that she has not been "conquered" by the Axis.

Mr. Gurnea reacts to that by asking "why, then, should we vote against the United Nations?"

was never tried in court. The jury declared Drew found insane, and hence not fit to stand trial.

If Drew found is not mentally fit to stand trial, he is not fit to stand trial in the recent war, how come his brain is good enough to turn out better poetry than anybody else in the whole U.S.A.?

The judges of the poetry, not the wartime alleged treason take note that "objections may be made to awarding a prize to a man situated as Mr. Pound."

But they argue if I think properly that they are charged only with the solemn job of awarding prizes to the best poetry.

But their judgment, signed by such world-famous names as W. H. Auden and E. E. Cummings, has not answered a much bigger question: "Who's us, anyway?"

Vermilion Citizens Fete Retiring Mayor

VERMILION, March 10.—Mayor Emeritus of Vermilion, J. W. G. Morrison, was fêted on Monday evening by the new mayor and council and past members of the council.

Twenty men gathered in George's Lower deck to bid an official farewell to Mr. Morrison on his retirement from the mayoralty.

Mr. Morrison has served 12 years as chief of the town. When he first took over, the finances of the town were in very poor shape. Taxes in arrears and uncollected light bills had set Vermilion back where its credit was practically nil. He leaves the mayor's chair with the town ranked in excellent financial condition. He also did creditable work as school trustee and as the town's representative on the Hospital Board.

Mayor W. P. Pillek presided over the fête. After partaking of a light dinner and listening to a few remarks, Mr. Morrison was presented with a leather club bag.

No-Confidence Motion Lost In Commons

By RONALD A. NICKERSON

OTTAWA, March 10.—(BUP).—The government yesterday weathered the first of two motions of no confidence, and found itself freed with the possibility of a third.

In its first major test of strength in the present session, the Liberal Administration, backed by the Progressive Conservative party, sank a CCF sub-amendment to the government-prepared throne speech by a vote of 154 to 38.

SECOND VOTE OF DAY

It was the second vote taken in the house yesterday. Earlier it had divided on a question asked by a Progressive Conservative member on various agreements made by the government-owned Polymer Corporation. By a vote of 146 to 74, it was decided that the information requested should not be given on the floor of the house.

Immediately following the division, Social Credit leader Selous Low in adjourning yesterday's debate, indicated that his party would introduce its own motion when the house meets today.

It was understood that Low would bring in a sub-amendment worded in such a way that all members of the opposition could vote in favor of it.

TORIES' MOTION

The CCF motion was a sub-amendment to a Progressive Conservative amendment. Its rejection was the first step toward ending the long drawn out throne speech debate.

It opened the way for a vote on the Conservative motion, which states flatly that the administration "does not possess the confidence of this house." First, however, the Social Credit sub-amendment would have to be voted on.

Dairymen Claim U.S. Oleo Victory

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP)

—United States dairy interests claimed a first-round victory yesterday in the battle of oleomargarine versus butter.

The House Agriculture Committee gave thumbs up to a bill to lift all federal taxes from oleo—but also voted to prohibit the sale of yellow-colored oleo in interstate commerce.

Dairy-state members agreed in committee hearings to the repeal of federal taxes on oleomargarine. But they had fought bitterly to prohibit interstate sale of the spread when it is colored yellow.

Uses Elimination To Pick Correct Lead

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

Today's lesson hand came to me from Simon Rosent, one of the life masters of New York City. He said he thought that various things that happened on the hand were unusually interesting. As a matter of fact, there are several lessons to be learned from it.

First we will take up the bidding. Many players would make the mistake of opening the bidding with three of four spades on the South hand. As long as South has spades, the highest ranking suit, and a sound opening bid, why pre-empt?

Lesson Hand—Bidding
South: West North: East
1♠ Pass Pass Double
Pass 2♥ Pass 130 T.
Pass Pass Double Pass

Opening—West

When North passed and East doubled, Rosent said he felt confident there was no chance for game, so he passed. West's bid of three diamonds showed at least a six card suit, and having the spade suit stopped East took a chance and went to three no trump. Rosent passed, but to his surprise, his partner doubled.

Now, what should the opening lead be? With eight spades in Rosent's hand, declarer obviously must have the king-jack of spades doubled, and possibly three spades. Rosent felt certain that his partner had no more than one spade. Therefore, a spade opening might produce the spin trick for the declarer.

Having eliminated a spade lead, the next likely lead would be a club; but if he laid down the king of clubs, declarer might win it, come right back with another club and establish the club trick in that suit. The fact that West had bid three diamonds, indicating a long, solid diamond suit, eliminated a diamond lead. So the only lead left was the heart.

The lesson here is that the correct opening lead can sometimes be determined by a process of eliminating the lead of any other suit as wrong. Rosent's lead of the six of hearts was not made because he analyzed it as the correct lead. He simply eliminated the other three suits from the picture.

His partner won the six of hearts with the ace and led back a spade, so North and South cashed the first nine tricks.

I gave Calgary a good dressing down last week for picturing modern Alberta as a rip-roaring wild west, where cowboys and Indians gallop thither and yon.

Now I better give a good piece of my mind to a fellow named Stewart MacPherson. MacPherson is a Canadian who made good on the British Broadcasting Corporation network as a commentator.

He paid a visit to this "colony" earlier in the week and then went back to the Old Land to write about what he saw.

In the London Sunday Chronicle of Jan. 30, "regards" MacPherson entering readers with a yarn about Edmonton.

Here are a few of the choice excerpts:

"It is a frontier town on the rim of the great Peace River country—the sort of town you see at the movies and read about in the western magazines. The Yanks insist upon calling it Edmonton, U.S.A., and being that it was here that the Alaskan Highway was started, (Edmonton is only 450 miles from the start of the Alaskan Highway.)

"Edmonton still has the swinging bang of a frontier town—down-thro, exciting and bustling.

"In Edmonton you find yourself walking with a Tom Mix and an insurance salesman every time you go out. And these are the things that you find.

"Where in the world have we been all these years? The only answer is that you are in Edmonton! I must have wasted a lot of dough. According to Mr. MacPherson, all an Edmontonian should need for a western thrill is to loosen his six-shooter and step out onto Jasper Avenue.

"If you are really daring you might like to go to the corner of 17th street before a band of whooping Indians cut you down with tomahawk and arrow.

"And those tough babies. Watch 'em reel along Macdonald drive every evening; always ready to show you that rival gang from Circle U ranch back in the Westsaskwanch country.

"That treacherous, whizzing down Jasper isn't really powered by electricity. It's just Wild Bill Finnigan from the Rabbit Hills with a bumper covered wagon.

"That loud babble of voices isn't raised in protest against selection of a Pan-Canada Highway route. That's just Edmonton sheep herders plotting to stop the threatened invasion of cattlemen. Edmonton doesn't need a modern Civic Auditorium. We need more stockade for protection from the marauding redskins.

"Now Mr. MacPherson's description of Edmonton might be a lot of fun if it were for the fact a lot of people believe what he read in their newspapers.

"There was a time back when you could forgive this kind of trash. West-bound was still pretty close to the frontier days. Although not even that close as the Canadian article points out.

"Such an article in 1949 isn't excusable. From the pen of a Canadian it's outrageous.

"How about the report from the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce to the owners of the said "London Chronicle"?

"For I'm reaching for 'm' gun partner, MacPherson. You better smile when you say these things about Edmonton.

CPA Men Go Out to Coast

Fifteen mechanical and maintenance men of Canadian Pacific Airlines have left for Vancouver as first group of an army personnel at the east city, terminus of CPA's forthcoming Trans-Pacific flights.

This was announced here today by the company, which reports that plans were progressing at Vancouver for expanded facilities to accommodate large aircraft on the run between Canada and Australia.

Previously it was reported that CPA had bought a large tract of land near Vancouver airport to be used as the site of repair and maintenance shops.

The men who left Edmonton will become part of the permanent Vancouver staff. Their families will follow as soon as housing accommodation is available.

MUCH INTEREST

Legislators' Pay Increase Bill Read

Alberta's legislators brightened visibly yesterday when a bill to increase their seasonal indemnity by $1,500 each was given first reading.

The bill provides that cabinet ministers are to get the same annual indemnity as members of government front-benchers were more often cheered by the legislature.

At present a back-bencher gets $2,500 per session, but cabinet ministers get $3,000.

Regular salaries of cabinet ministers is also boosted from $6,000 to $7,000 a year, according to government estimates, which mean an Alberta portfolio will be worth $10,000 a year hereafter.

If a member is absent for more than five sittings of the house, unless he is ill and unable to put in an appearance, it costs him $21 for each such day.

Injured Man To Testify

Inquest into the truck accident death Tuesday of 31-year-old H. J. Freese opened yesterday at Park Memorial Funeral home, but findings in case of death will not be known until full-scale investigation is conducted by a coroner's jury some two weeks from now.

Freese was killed instantly near early Tuesday when the truck he was driving was struck head-on by a truck said to have been driven by Tony Tamewsky of Dawson Creek.

Tamewsky at present is in Royal Alexandra Hospital, where extent of his injuries is not yet known. Coroner's jury, headed by Dr. M. M. Cantor, chief provincial coroner, will await Tamewsky's release from hospital before continuing its investigations. Dr. Cantor announced.

Present Car Insurance Laws Remain

Reasons why the Alberta government auto insurance committee had not suggested compulsory government car insurance were given by Hon. A. J. Hooke, Minister of Economic Affairs, in the Alberta legislature yesterday.

A committee appointed during the 1948 session had studied four basic plans for automobile insurance and safety, he said. It had also considered a review of safety laws as at present in Alberta and British Columbia.

The minister said the committee had decided in favor of Alberta's present regulations, which provide for payment to victims of accidents where the driver responsible for the accident is unable to pay, even after a court judgment has been given.

Debate will be concluded later by Mr. Hooke, who moved adjournment at six p.m.

PLAYING AND WORKING

Bulletin Carrier Boy Wanders for Adventure

Hokey, young Phil Allen, trekker of the gold rush trails to the Klondike, is in Edmonton to make a comeback.

Two years ago the 30-year-old North Battleford, ex-serviceman and former Bulletin carrier boy quit his DVA course at the University of Alberta, and moved away on a north-bound plane.

In his pocket was a dime, in his hands a clarinet, and in his heart the hope of adventure and a life of "real down-east" life.

Now after wandering over more than 6,000 miles of Northland, lecturing in British Columbia on his experience, the man with the ticky tick is back.

His ambition? Why, to lecture at the University of Alberta. Phil Allen's stay in Edmonton will be brief. Soon, he says, he must be off to "discover" Eastern Canada and the States. And after that he is Indisposed.

When the money he earns in lecturing, and playing with local dance bands rule out, he takes up hard labor.

That he learned as he trod the icy trails live a "real down-east" life.

"Boy, those fellas' earned every ounce of gold they ever got," he chuckled to a Bulletin reporter.

He told of his journey by land and water to the shores of the Arctic Ocean, and from there to Dawson City. It was here that he met original old-timers.

"They told me many things which I shall include in the book I'm writing," the former Bulletin carrier boy added. He hopes to get the book, to be called "One case made," published this year.

Percy Bengough Issues Statement to Union Here

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada is a body that will fight any effort at domination from the United States.

This was made known today by President Percy R. Bengough of the T.L.C. in a circular issued to officers and members of organizations and unions affiliated with the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

Rules Block CCF Members

Alberta's two CCF members of the legislature found themselves galled by a rigid interpretation of house rules yesterday during debate on the government auto insurance committee report.

Hon. A. J. Hooke, minister of economic affairs and chairman of the three-man committee which had prepared the report moved acceptance of it, as the house opened.

A. J. E. Lissner (CCF-Calgary) moved an amending resolution, which would have referred the report back to the committee for further study.

It was when Elmer K. Roper (CCF-Edmonton) party leader rose to speak on his own motion, the legislative fight began to fly.

Premier Ernest Manning and attorney-general, Lucien Mays, both called Speaker Dawson's ruling would have referred the report back to the committee for further study.

It was when Elmer K. Roper (CCF-Edmonton) party leader rose to speak on his own motion, the legislative fight began to fly.

Swans Down Mixes Not For Us Now

By Bea Thrifty

We have the austerity program to blame for something else.
This time it's the reason we can't have any of the new Swans Down Cake Flour mixes.
Those tempting, mouth-watering illustrations advertising the new mixes so blatantly in American magazines make us poor of Canadians mightier eager to give it a whirl.
But no dice for several months any distributors.

This said, and might be more embarrasing. In Canada Swans Down cake flour is subcontracted to another milling company.
They have neither the facilities nor the time to handle the cake mix. ... no in-house mixes in this brand for us Canucks.

However, we shall wait and wait.
Fortunately you can make those wonderfully light, feathery-textured cakes ... chocolate, white, orange, etc. and even cookies ... with the same package.
To bad we have to wait so long for it ... but our day will come ... never far.

I have a few more fine flower patterns to send around about the newly-arrived tinted flower and patterns.
Goodly huzzards of joy greet the long-absent goodies from Bisset. These Bisset of Mexico products are supposed to have a far superior flavor than the Pacific householders.

The small, scrumptious shrimp pattern for 42¢ a pair and the oysters up to the locket are supposed to have a far superior flavor than the Pacific householders.
These are the perfect oysters for cocktails, stews, fried or just plain. Well, they're available in quantity again. For a space, eager shoppers quibbled long enough to get up and down the aisle.

But everything is full speed again. The brightly-colored brooms really are gems. They're so easily washed ... just pour a bit of sudsy water and whisked about for a few moments.
I have a bright red one for my kitchen but there are other colors available such as turquoise, yellow, etc.

They're less than 82¢ per pair ... so invest in one right away fast.
More to plastic wares and have you managed to get those brightly-colored sets of graduated acetate? A set is yours for a 25¢ price and a box top.

With the onslaught of spring I hope to suppress the strong urge to fresh out into a certain and drapery buying urge.
Seems there are some valuable leavies in the way of certain materials found about.

A lovely blue print in late last year and apical of fresh and deep blue in flower sprigs would give the very essence of spring to a room.
Actually this is more of a bedroom print than anything else. I saw a chaise longue effort made from the same bolt of material and what a line ... no roll, no fringing, feminine and completely lovely.

Ohhhhh ... I almost forgot ... as of today we can buy large 48-ounce tins of delicious Hawaiian pineapple juice for a mere 50¢ per tin.
These large tins of the fruit juice we have been absent of for many moons.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Necessary Sometimes To Wash New Clothing

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Here are some suggestions which would seem to be of general interest.
Mrs. E.L. wonders whether it is necessary to wash all of the baby's new clothes before using them. "Shall this be done before or after I go to the hospital?" she writes.

All clothes which go next to the baby's body should be washed, unless they are purchased in sealed, cellophane wrappers. Then, they should be considered to be clean enough for immediate use.

The clothes that are bought right out of stock should be washed in all kinds of places and handled by unknown persons so that it is sensible to wash them well before putting them on the baby.
Woolen blankets, knitted garments, woolen socks and other things to wrap around the baby, if they look clean may be used until they are soiled. If they look soiled have them dry cleaned or wash them.

This should all be done before you go to the hospital to the baby's wardrobe will be ready to use, and, because the baby will be dressed in some of his own garments when he is brought home.

Mother of Two:
"Shall two children who are less than two years apart in ages, wear 'sister clothes'?"
To my opinion, this practice has some disadvantages which outweigh the ones that they look cute and that it simplifies shopping for the parent.

A child should have clothes that are becoming to the person she is. No two children look the same in similar clothes and her own personality should be taken into account.

If matching clothes are bought, the younger child will constantly be wearing the same clothes for she will wear out her own and then the hand-me-downs of her sister. Tasty pretty monotonous and most children would resent this. Buy each the clothes she needs when she needs them and let them be inevitably her own—at least when new. Then sister's Bernadette to be worn later will seem fresh and appealing.

TWO "FLIGHTY" characters collide! Joan Fontaine, the richest and daintiest girl in the world, taxis to a landing in the loving arms of James Stewart, a cargo pilot, in Universal-International's romantic comedy, "You Gotta Stay Happy," which opens at the Rialto theatre Friday.

Calgary Workshop 14 Wins Drama Festival

CALGARY, March 30.—(CP)—Workshop 14 of Calgary last night was declared winner of the 14th annual Alberta regional drama festival for its brilliant portrayal of Henrik Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler."

The award, announced by adjudicator Robert Speight of London, England, marked the second straight year that Workshop 14 has taken top festival honors. The Calgary group won out last year with Pierre Patheux.

Doreen Richardson of Workshop 14 won the award for the best actress for her portrayal of "Hedda." Best actor honors went to Canadian Newcomer of the Calgary Civic Theatre group who played the part of "Police Inspector Ruge" in "Galligat."

BEST IN CANADA

Mr. Speight said the Alberta festival "is the best I have ever seen across Canada." He also said there was a possibility the 1950 Canadian drama festival will be held in Calgary as "no part of Canada is better fitted to play host to the drama festival."

He described Workshop 14's presentation of Henrik Ibsen's play as "one of the best productions of 'Hedda Gabler' I have ever seen. It was one of the great surprises of my tour."

"The Calgary group is expected to represent Alberta in the national festival at Toronto April 25 to 30. The festival ended last night with presentation of four one-act plays by players from the University of Alberta."

CITY MAN LAUDED

Singled out for special praise from the adjudicator last night was "The White Man and the Mountain," a story of the white man's early search for gold in Alberta and the resistance by Indians of his coming and by the mountains to yielding their wealth. The play was written and directed by Robert Orchard of Edmonton. Mr. Speight said it was the first Canadian play he had seen written in verse.

The adjudicator said Robert Stuart of Edmonton deserved "to be congratulated for a brilliant piece of work in J. A. Coppard's 'Secret Story'."

Of the other two plays—Eddie Park Gowan's "Breches From Hood Street" and J. M. Murray's "But and Coy" both presented by the University of Alberta Provincial Players, he said they "were the first amateur role" of the festival.

Academy Winners Film Fine Comedy

Joan Fontaine, James Stewart
Team In Breezy Air Story

Two Academy Award winners, Joan Fontaine and James Stewart are teamed for the first time in the happiest combination of hilarity, romance and real excitement ever concocted for two popular stars, in Universal-International's romantic comedy, "You Gotta Stay Happy," which opens at the Rialto Friday.

Adapted from Robert Carson's Saturday Evening Post serial, it deals with the career of Dee Devlin, played by Stewart, a good aviator but a financial failure.

STORY EXPLAINED

Dee Dee (Joan Fontaine) can never decide what to do about men until she encounters Marvin Payne, played by Stewart, who is a good aviator but a financial failure. The gay adventure begins on Dee Dee's wedding night. She abandons her bridegroom in New York, and starts for Los Angeles in Marvin's cargo plane.

How the scrupulous Marvin, who refuses to accept unearned riches, finally wins under Dee Dee's magic spell, has been enacted with devastating effect. Comic scenes abound the plane and the forced landing in an Oklahoma wilderness are vastly entertaining.

FINE PERFORMANCE

Joan comes through with one of her finest performances in this picture. Although she has specialized in dramatic roles, she proves in this film that she is an accomplished comedienne. And she looks as charming as a doll, especially when she's wearing Stewart's flight suit.

Stewart is at his best in his role of the glitzy pilot, his first flying role, incidentally, after his release from the Army, where he served as a bomber pilot through out the war.

Easy-going Eddie Albert adds plenty of mirth with his breezy characterization of Stewart's co-pilot and leader, Roland Young, who never disappoints, delivers his usual brand of subtle comedy in the part of Jane's uncle.

U.K. HOUSE PASSES

NFLD. UNION BILL

LONDON, March 30.—(RUP)—The house of commons last night passed the North American bill concerning the union of Newfoundland with Canada after rejecting two proposed amendments to the bill.

The bill passed third reading without a vote.

The two proposed amendments had called for restrictions of responsible government in Newfoundland and for full discussion and approval by the Newfoundland people on terms of union with Canada.

A. J. Herbert proposed after these steps were taken, that Canada should automatically commit itself to force.

Passage of the bill left only two steps to be completed before the entry of Newfoundland as Canada's 10th province. The bill, ratifying the terms of union must be passed by the house of lords and receive the approval of the King.

Both these steps were expected to be completed by March 31.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas
HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—(AP)—Edgar Bergen is going to hunt for gag writers within the ivied walls of universities.

The ventriloquist, enjoying his short-term retirement, is heading for a vacation jaunt to Florida and Cuba. When he returns, he says he'll tour colleges in search of bright young men to help write his act.

Bergen hopes the fresh writing talent will bring his program a new slant. He realized he will be in tough company next fall on CBS, since he will follow Jack Benny and "Amos 'n' Andy" and precede Red Skelton. Bergen has indicated he'll aim toward the realm of fantasy.

MATURE ON HIMSELF

Vic Matur, who is a great press agent for Vic Matur, was showing a letter he received from Paramount boss Henry Ginsberg. The letter said early comments about "Samson and Delilah" have only been equalled by those about "Gone With the Wind" and "Best Years of Our Lives."

Vic may still do "Paradise Lost, 1949" in Italy, now that Dana Andrews has been put into another role. But the muscle man isn't eager to work. He has three unreleased pictures and feels the public can get too much of a good thing.

One of the hottest races in Hollywood history is being on today between film companies hurrying pictures on Negro themes. The contenders: 20th-Fox's "Pinkie," MGM's "Intruder in the Dust," Louis Lomax's "Lost Boundaries" and Screen Play's "Home of the Brave."
